City Implements Paperless Commission Agenda

Beginning with tonight's City Commission Meeting, the City of Pompano Beach is implementing a new application to help streamline and automate its City Commission agenda processes, increasing citizen awareness and participation.

By using this powerful legislative solution, Pompano Beach not only streamlines the agenda creation process, but saves on paper-based document management expenses including administrative handling, printing, faxing and scanning. It also increases overall productivity. Legistar, the application provided by Granicus, Inc., allows staff to send agendas electronically to City Commission members.

"This new digital process will reduce the cost to produce agendas. Now, citizens are able to view easily each agenda before, during, and after each City Commission meeting. This keeps them well-informed and gives them a platform to become more involved in local government," said Lamar Fisher, Mayor of Pompano Beach.

To utilize this new open government feature, you can log onto www.Pompanobeachfl.gov, click on "Commission" on the homepage, then click "Agenda Backup and Live Video Streaming for Upcoming Meetings".
