ELECTIONS IN NOVEMBER

Several years ago, the State of Florida adopted a law allowing Broward County cities to change their elections from the second Tuesday in March to November, which would cut city costs and perhaps increase voter turnout. Traditionally, voters have come to the polls in larger numbers when they vote in November for State and national elections.

Similarly, when the City of Pompano Beach conducts its standalone elections in March, voter turnout has historically been lackluster, and at a significantly higher cost.

As a result of the outcome of November 2008 municipal election, a cost-saving referendum was approved to transition the City's elections from March to the first Tuesday in November of even-numbered years to be concurrent with State and National elections; extending and shortening elected officials' terms to accomplish the transition and increasing the term of the office of Mayor from three to four years.

The next City of Pompano Beach General Election will be held on November 4th, 2014 for the following seats, and every two years thereafter:

District 1 } Barry Dockswell
District 2 } Charlotte Burrie
District 3 } Rex Hardin

District 4 } Woodrow Poitier
District 5 } George Brummer

Subsequently, on November 1st, 2016, the next municipal General Election will be held for the Commissioners of Districts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and the mayor-at-large whose term will expire. All candidates for city commissioner will be elected for a two year term; and the candidate for the office of mayor will be elected for a four year term.

Any person wishing to become a candidate, must be a qualified elector who has been a resident of the city for one year prior to qualifying, is registered to vote in the City, and who will have reached the age of twenty-one at the time of taking office, may be a candidate for the City Commission from the district in which he/she resides. In addition, each candidate seeking the office of city commissioner must file all the required forms as may be required by law with the City Clerk's Office within the filing period starting at 12:00 pm, June 16th, 2014 and ending at 12:00 pm, June 20st, 2014.

Please contact the City Clerk's Office at 954.786.4611 for additional information regarding the upcoming November 4th, 2014 election.

Cultural ARTS

The Parks, Recreation & Cultural Arts Department currently programs cultural arts activities through free monthly music concerts, theatre performances, diverse dance classes, drama camps, art exhibits, and more. Drawing from the vision of the new Cultural Arts Master Plan, the City of Pompano Beach looks forward to enhancing the cultural art activities by building new cultural centers, upgrading the existing cultural facilities, and expanding programs in an effort to foster the creativity and cultural diversity of our residents and visitors alike. Through these efforts, we will strive to place the City of Pompano Beach on the map as a cultural arts destination.

CULTURAL ARTS UPDATE

After years of planning to position Pompano Beach as a Cultural Arts destination, it's about to become a reality. In December, the City Commission unanimously approved the Pompano Beach Cultural Arts Master Plan, tag line "... something wonderful is about to happen". The Plan identifies future programming objectives for five Cultural Arts facilities: the new Pompano Beach Cultural Center; the existing Pompano Beach Amphitheater; two Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) renovations - the Hotel Bailey and Ali Building in Downtown Pompano Beach; and the historic Sample-McDougald House in Centennial Park. Look forward to innovative arts programming including visual arts, music, film, theater, dance, public art, history, and historic preservation.

Hotel Bailey to open as Bailey Contemporary Arts (BaCA)

In February, the Pompano Beach Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) approved a contract with Creative City Collaborative, the organization that manages the Arts Garage in Delray Beach, to operate two renovated cultural venues in Downtown Pompano — the Hotel Bailey in Old Pompano and the Ali Building on Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard/Hammondville Road.

Alyona Ushe, Creative City Collaborative Executive Director, has presented more than 300 concerts by international talent and emerging artists in Delray Beach and launched an array of signature series, including musical concerts, visual art exhibitions, theater programs, and educational and outreach initiatives.

The team has already begun plans for phase one of the project --- opening the Hotel Bailey as Bailey Contemporary Arts (BaCA). In 2012, the CRA purchased the pigeon-filled building, and it is now poised to become the center of artistic energy in Downtown Pompano Beach. The renovation is breathtaking, and will feature a dozen sunny studios for visual artists, kilns, classrooms and galleries that can be transformed for various events including intimate concerts, film and improv. BaCA is destined to be a magnet for creative energy.

The Creative City team will also open the first phase of the Ali Building later this year.

Pompano Beach will soon proudly boast that “something wonderful is happening” in the Cultural Arts.

Pompano Beach Cultural Center Coming Soon

Opening in 2015, in conjunction with a new Broward County Public Library, the new Pompano Beach Cultural Center will feature a cutting-edge performance and event space, Digital Arts and Media Center and visual arts exhibition space. The Cultural Center will inspire artists to experiment and will draw new audiences to Downtown Pompano's Creative Arts District. Innovative programming will celebrate the City's diverse history and nurture budding cultural organizations. Cultural, literary and civic activities will be juxtaposed at a vibrant, walk-able hub and spill out onto a new Arts Plaza, across Atlantic Boulevard into historic Old Pompano and along Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard/Hammondville Road.

The City requested “iconic” architecture, and project architects responded with a bold “inverted L” design for the new center, creating massing and structure that intertwines a central courtyard and breezeways to encourage cultural center and library patrons to intermingle and relax in the public Arts Plaza. At night, a translucent “glowing crown” will highlight the drama of activities at the Cultural Center and serve as a beacon of light for the Cultural Arts in the City of Pompano Beach.

The City plans to professionally staff the new Center in conjunction with exciting new programming at the Pompano Beach Amphitheater and to work with the Sample-McDougald House Preservation Society to integrate programming at the historic house and at other Cultural Arts venues throughout the City.

Chad Brocato, Assistant Fire Chief

The City of Pompano Beach has hired a new assistant fire chief. Chad Brocato was selected by Fire Chief John Jurgle after an extensive search involving a wide variety of candidates from across the nation. Brocato was formerly the fire chief for Deerfield Beach where he rose through every rank to achieve the top position. Following the merger into Broward Sheriff's Office (BSO), Chad remained in Deerfield Beach, serving as the district fire chief. On September 30th, he retired from BSO and applied for the position in Pompano Beach.

Chad Brocato has over 23 years of experience in the fire service.

His education and credentials include:

- Doctor of Jurisprudence (Law Degree) - Cum Laude, Nova Southeastern University in Davie
- Doctor of Health Science from Nova Southeastern University in Davie
- Master of Science in Medical Sciences - Honors, Nova Southeastern University in Davie
- Associate in Science in Emergency Medical Services - Highest Honors, Broward Community College

As an experienced writer for fire trade publications, Assistant Fire Chief Chad Brocato wrote the following article on the serious and treatment of different types of burns.

Ever wonder why that blister forms when you touch a hot stove? Our bodies are not well-suited for tolerating high temperatures. Our friends from the north who venture to our beach and stay in the sun all day try to test that theory. For example, a person with pale skin who stays out in the rays of the sun often experiences what is known as a first degree burn. In that case, the skin becomes red, painful and may show some swelling. In contrast, a second degree burn more commonly occurs when the skin comes into contact with an object that is very hot, like a stove or hot curling iron. A second degree burn can also occur from exposure to a fire. This type of burn is very painful, and it is common for the skin to blister. In fact, the blister is a hallmark sign of a second degree burn.

In more extreme exposures, the skin may be burned through each of its delicate layers to develop a third degree burn. Exposure to direct flames or contact with high voltage electricity are some examples of how this type of burn occurs. Since a third degree burn destroys the skin, it may appear charred or have a gray color. A thick, hard scar may form at the site of the burn.

While it is important to have a basic understanding of the types of burns, it's also a good idea to understand how much of the body has been affected. A relatively minor first degree burn can have a significant impact if it covers the entire body. Likewise, a third degree burn (the worst type) is not as serious if it only involves a portion of the skin that is the size of a dime. It becomes important for self-care and when calling the emergency 9-1-1 number to know both the degree of burn and the amount of skin that is affected. You don't have to use fancy terms to describe the injuries. A basic description of what you actually see is very helpful.

Basic treatment for burns includes stopping the burning process as the first goal. From this perspective, you would remove any jewelry that might retain heat and continue to cause injury. Removing the person from contact with a hot object is also a good example. The next step for first or second degree burns affecting a small area of the body is to cool the area with tepid (warm) water. The area can then be wrapped in sterile gauze that is available from your local pharmacy.

Third degree burns or burns that involve a large portion of the body should result in an immediate call to 9-1-1 for an emergency response. While you are waiting for an ambulance, you can still help the person. Avoid removing burned clothing. Look for signs of circulation, like breathing, coughing, or movement. If there are no signs of circulation, CPR is needed. If the person is awake and alert, you can assist by gently covering the burns with gauze that has been moistened with tepid water. If you are unsure if the burn is serious or not, the best approach is to be cautious and call 9-1-1.

There are also things that you should NOT do when caring for a burn. Don't use ice in an attempt to relieve pain. The ice can cause additional damage because the skin has been injured. Do not apply egg whites, butter, or ointment to the burned area because they increase the risk for infection. Also, don't break any blisters that form on the skin. The unbroken skin on a blister forms a barrier to infection, which is lost if you break the skin open.

Have You Ever Wondered

In the news every day, you can almost count on reports describing disasters somewhere in the United States or the world...whether it be hurricanes, fires, floods, tornadoes, water contamination, snowstorms, toxic spills, terrorism, pandemic scares...the list goes on and on.

As you hear about these events, have you ever wondered how your City operates during such incidents?

When a disaster is imminent or has already occurred, all City departments and agencies must work closely together to save lives and protect property. This disaster preparedness team works together at the City's Emergency Operations Center (EOC). The EOC becomes the central nerve point for the City where all city operations can be coordinated and greatly needed resources can be attained and utilized.

Recently, the City's Emergency Manager, Kimberly Spill-Cristiano, was able to facilitate the upgrading of the City's EOC with new computers, displays and other needed tools through a grant provided by the US Department of Homeland Security. Through ongoing planning, training and exercises, the City's disaster preparedness team has enhanced its capabilities to better respond and recover from any type of disaster.

While the City of Pompano Beach has been fortunate over the last few years, history reveals that disasters can and do strike our area. It is important to be prepared. Do you have a disaster preparedness plan for your family? To create your family's plan or to become a volunteer for the Fire Department's Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) visit our website at www.pompanobeachfl.gov.

POMPANO'S BEACH:

PART 2

By Dan Hobby
Pompano Beach
Historical Society

In 1947, almost four decades following its incorporation, Pompano became Pompano Beach. The name change was not unprecedented; the nearby Town of Deerfield had changed its name to Deerfield Beach in 1939. The reasons for the change, however, were unique.

"It was all about utilities" said Richard Rogers in a 1971 interview. Mr. Rogers, a beach resident in the 1940s was referring to the contentious issue between residents of the beach area and the City of Pompano in the immediate aftermath of the Second World War. And when he said it was all about utilities, he meant it was all about money.

As the global conflict was coming to an end, it was increasingly clear to many people that the oceanfront could not remain an unincorporated "colony" of Pompano. Beach residents and property owners may have had different ideas about what the coming years would bring – some wanted the beach area to be largely restricted to residential development while other foresaw a more commercial future -- but almost all recognized the need for a government that would oversee growth.

The City of Pompano was willing to annex the beach, but the sticking points were property taxes and the price of utilities. City officials feared that the cost of annexation would not be offset by new revenues, while beach residents feared that the City would impose a surcharge on their utility rates. They also were concerned that Pompano would cherry-pick certain areas to annex, leaving others still without municipal governance.

As a way to insure that the City of Pompano would have to address the entire area, on June 15, 1946, a meeting was called by the Pompano Beach Improvement Association at the Pompano Casino to discuss incorporation. Many of those attending had moved here from elsewhere and had little or no ties to Pompano. At that time, the State of Florida had fairly loose rules regarding incorporation and so when the attendees favored creating a new town to be named Pompano Beach, it was accomplished in short order.

Although the first town council (which included the aforementioned Mr. Rogers) was composed of some people who did not have long and deep ties to the area, it is significant that William L. Kester and M. A. Hортt, both of whom were well-respected businessmen with decades of history in the region, participated by serving on a committee to draft a zoning ordinance. Some individuals might have considered incorporation a negotiating tactic, hoping to get a better deal from Pompano, but a few had a vision for the oceanfront that was much more upscale (similar to Hillsboro Beach) than would be possible if the beach area was part of Pompano.

The tactic worked as the Pompano City Council began to negotiate with the beach in a more serious manner. Perhaps it was instructive to the Pompano leadership that residents in both Hillsboro Beach and Lauderdale-By-The-Sea were also taking steps to incorporate.

Following a series of meetings to hammer out details, the municipalities of Pompano and Pompano Beach merged on June 16, 1947, along with the "no man's land" in between, to form a new City of Pompano Beach. It was agreed that city services would be supplied to beach residents at the same price that was charged residents in other parts of the city. Under the terms of the merger, the existing officers of the two municipalities were to remain in office, or draw their salary, until the expiration of their terms of office.

The Pompano Casino was constructed during the 1920s by the Blount brothers (William, George and DeVotie) at then eastern end of today's Atlantic Boulevard. Despite its name, it did not house gambling activities; rather it was a place where residents and visitors would change into swimming attire and perhaps grab a bite to eat. Over time it became a venue for civic and social activities. It was here in 1946 that local residents gathered and decided to incorporate the beach as a separate municipality. The Pompano Casino was destroyed by a fire in November, 1954.

With the merger, the old town council was abolished and a commission-city manager form of government was established. In the 1947 municipal election, there were three polling places: the Pompano Casino on the beach, McNab's Service Station at Federal Highway and Atlantic Boulevard, and Pompano City Hall. A total of 469 residents cast votes, which was about 80 percent of all registered voters in the city, and the first commissioners elected were Clyde Bland (mayor), Ted Hull, Joseph Allison, Albert Smoak and W. P. Fulbright. The first city manager was S. T. Sawyer, who served only a short while and was replaced by Horace P. Edmond.

The new municipality was a merger for the most part in name only, as the city was still controlled by the agricultural interests that had run the city since its incorporation in 1908. The second half of the twentieth century began developments that would change Pompano Beach were already underway, and the beach area would become a focal point of change.

Clyde Bland (1890 - 1964) became the first mayor of the "new" municipality of Pompano Beach in 1947. Mr. Bland, who had previously served on the Pompano City Council, was a member of the old Pompano farming power structure.

POMPANO BEACH'S COMMUNITY ACTION TEAM

The Pompano Beach Broward Sheriff's Office (BSO) District is the very first BSO district to have a Community Action Team (CAT).

The unit was formed three years ago with the vision of working closely with all City of Pompano Beach departments and staff to detour crime BEFORE it happens. The CAT unit consists of three deputies and one sergeant. There is a wide range of functions that the CAT unit addresses including Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design (CPTED), community forums, workshops, Community on Patrol (COP), fingerprint program, mobile home park program, festival events, church events, partnership with local businesses, and community outreach events.

One of the most popular CAT programs is CPTED. The goal of CPTED is to make Pompano Beach a safe and secure city utilizing crime prevention techniques. Collaborating with the Development Services Department, the CAT team applies the latest innovative security environmental design techniques. An example of this is removing or relocating landscaping that is up against home or business that may provide a hiding space, allowing an individual to conceal themselves in order to break into a house or commit a criminal act when the home owner arrives home.

To reach one of the CAT members you can email them at PompanoCAT@sheriff.org or call 954-786-4289.

MOBILE PARKING COMES TO POMPANO BEACH!

Dig for change at a parking meter? Stand in line at a parking kiosk? Not anymore! The City of Pompano Beach has implemented a mobile payment parking service throughout the metered spaces at Pompano's beach. The new PassportParking service provides you the ability to pay for parking from your mobile phone.

"Paying by mobile phone provides our residents and visitors with an easy-to-use and convenient option to pay for parking," said Lamar Fisher, Mayor for the City of Pompano Beach. "With mobile payment parking, we're able to enhance the Pompano Beach experience by allowing customers to pay on the go as well as extend their session while they are enjoying the beach, activities, or local restaurants."

STATEMENT UTILITY BILLING

If you receive your water from the City of Pompano Beach you should have received your new statement utility bill. The City has finally done away with the old postcard bill. The new bill has more room to include detailed information about your water usage, including a comparison to your usage the previous month and the same month last year. There is also more room to keep you informed about upcoming events and happenings within the City. Perhaps best of all, there is a return envelope for those of you who like to mail your payment. Of course if your account is set up for automatic bank drafting, no envelope is included. We hope this new format is easier to understand and we welcome your feedback. Call: 954.786.4637

To utilize the new parking service, you must first register for free via the PassportParking's app or website, or by calling the local free number: 954.204.3844. You can also register with the push of a button using Facebook.

Once registration is complete, you can pay for parking by using a mobile app, calling the toll free number or texting your zone and space information. Mobile payment parking also provides customers the option to receive text message alerts and reminders five minutes prior to their time expiring. Customers will not have to display any proof of payment as enforcement agents can view payments through a wireless device or through the pay stations currently in place.

You don't even have to leave your beach blanket to extend your stay on Pompano's beach. Use your smart phone to pay for parking and prolong your fun in the sun!

RESIDENTIAL WOW AWARD

The 2014 Pompano Proud WOW Award for Home Beautification is presented to Maria Jose Higgins who lives on Robbins Road in Pompano Beach. A proclamation was presented to the property owner by Mayor Fisher at a City Commission meeting. Congratulations and thank you for contributing to the beautification of our City!

CITY EMPLOYEES WEAR JEANS FOR A CAUSE

CITY EMPLOYEES SHOWING OFF THEIR WRIST BANDS AND JEANS!

For three years, City of Pompano Beach employees have been raising money for the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life. Each employee that wishes to participate, has to "pay to play" by donating $5.00. Once the donation has been collected, the employee receives a purple Relay wrist band with permission to "dress down". While they are still required to adhere to the City's dress code, employees have the opportunity to wear jeans on that Friday. Paying to wear jeans is a great way for employees to be part of something that gives back to the community.

FIRE-RESCUE WEARS PINK FOR A CURE

The Pompano Beach Fire Department has had a long history of supporting the fight against breast cancer. In a show of support, Pompano Beach Fire Rescue wore pink T-shirts during the month of October to encourage the fight against breast cancer and to support all those who fight this horrible disease each day.

HOOPS FOR A CURE

The City of Pompano Beach and Blanche Ely High School joined forces for a basketball challenge in an effort to raise funds for breast cancer awareness.

As part of the City's wellness program, a group of employees from the Public Works and Utilities Departments formed a Hoops For Health basketball team that plays basketball after hours every week as part of the wellness initiative. They challenged the Blanche Ely High School Varsity Basketball Team to a basketball competition to raise awareness as part of Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Although the City of Pompano Beach gave them a run for their money, Blanche Ely with the help of school Principal Karlton Johnson, won the game with a final score of 93 to 90.

Mayor Lamar Fisher (back row, third from right) agreed to play in the basketball game for this worthy cause. The Blanche Ely High School Marching Band, teachers and City employees were in attendance to cheer on their team and show their support.

PRIME RATE BUSINESS LOANS STILL AVAILABLE FROM THE OFFICE OF HOUSING & URBAN IMPROVEMENT

The City of Pompano Beach Office of Housing and Urban Improvement (OHUI) is entering its third year helping Pompano Beach businesses to thrive and create jobs. With help from the volunteer professionals who serve on the Revolving Loan Fund Committee, seven local businesses have received a total of $425,000 in loans. Repayments from those loans are allowing OHUI to continue offering Revolving Loans of $25,000 to $50,000, and sometimes higher, at the Prime Rate. Here's how the program works:

Using $500,000 of HUD Economic Development money, OHUI created the Revolving Loan Fund. The Fund's purpose is to help businesses grow so they can create or retain jobs for low and moderate income persons. Although the loans are much like private bank loans, the lower interest rate reduces monthly loan payments. Lower monthly payments help cash flow, an important ingredient for success.

Revolving Loan Fund loans can be used for a broad range of activities, including working capital for inventory; machinery; equipment and building improvements. Any business located in Pompano Beach can apply. Those located in the Enterprise Zone or the Northwest or East CRA may qualify for additional incentives that will make their loan money go even further. For example, a business in the Enterprise Zone that puts its loan towards building improvements can get a refund of up to $10,000 for sales taxes on building materials used in the project. The State offers similar Enterprise Zone refunds for equipment purchases and other activities.

To find out if your business is in the Pompano Beach Enterprise Zone or East/NW CRA, log on to the Broward County Enterprise Zone website at www.pompanobeachfl.gov/enterprise, call 954.786.4659 or stop by Room 220 in City Hall.

Hours of Operation

North Pompano Beach Boulevard & Atlantic Boulevard

The public beach is open 365 days a year. Swimming areas guarded 7 days a week 9 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. During day light savings the guards extend their coverage until 6:45 p.m. (early March to early September).

Restroom facilities, showers, picnic shelter and tables, barbecue grills, beach wheelchairs, and children's playground are located on the beach.

The Municipal Pier, 222 N. Pompano Beach Boulevard, is open 24 hours a day. Food and beverages can be purchased at the Pier Concession.

The public beach has two beach wheelchairs which make the beach accessible to our special needs residents and visitors. The beach chairs are available seven days a week on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information go to Ocean Rescue Headquarters (50 N. Pompano Beach Blvd.) or ask any lifeguard.

Ocean Rescue

Pompano Beach Ocean Rescue is a division of Pompano Beach Fire Rescue. The beach patrol consists of 17 full-time and 35 part-time highly trained men and women who protect swimmers along 1,200 yards of beach. All of our ocean lifeguards are certified First Responders or Emergency Medical Technicians who are trained to handle any emergency and are equipped with full basic life support equipment such as AED's and oxygen. Our agency's lifeguard certification is provided through the United States Lifesaving Association. Ocean Rescue lifeguards receive additional training with Pompano Beach Fire Rescue. Our ocean lifeguards also have extensive knowledge of the ocean and beach environment and are always happy to answer questions from the public.

No craft shall be operated at a distance closer than 100 yards (300 feet) of the municipal pier. Stand up paddleboarders outside the vessel exclusion buoys are required to wear a life vest

Flood Damage {Protect Your Home and Property}

This article is required by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (F.E.M.A.) to satisfy provisions in the Community Rating System (C.R.S.) for reduced costs for flood insurance. The following is offered to Pompano Beach residents to help prevent and minimize the impact on lives and property caused by floodwaters.

Flood Hazard Map

The City's Engineering Department has enhanced FEMA's Flood Criteria Map identifying flood zones for all properties in the city. The FEMA Flood Hazard Areas found within the City limits include Zone X, Zone AE, Zone AH, and Zone VE. The map depicts the flood hazard associated with any parcel in the City. A Summarized flood zones map is located in the Building Inspections Division at City Hall and is available in electronic GIS format.

Flood Risk

Although we have been relatively fortunate for many years, the recent flooding on Halloween 2011 reminds us of the possibility of a flooding event without a major storm or hurricane. The risk of flooding within the City of Pompano Beach can increase by the presence of higher water levels within the Atlantic Ocean and the Intracoastal Waterway due to storm surge. In general, property located east of State Road A1A within the City has been designated as a coastal zone which encounters greater flooding risk due to waves and storm surge during a significant storm event.

Flood Warning System

The City of Pompano Beach, in coordination with Broward County, has a warning system to notify residents of impending flood danger. Warnings will be transmitted on public address systems such as the City's website, CODE RED, television channel 78, telephone, and on a door-to-door basis. Listen for instructions during times of flood risk.

Flood Safety

These are precautionary steps to consider before possible flooding:

- Listen to radio or television for warnings.
- Obey warning and evacuation instructions from disaster officials.
- Know your evacuation zone and route.
- Take your own essentials (food, toiletries, clothes, blankets, etc.).
- Turn off the electricity and gas before leaving your home.
- Bring a battery-operated flashlight.
- Be careful at all times, particularly at night, and try to remain calm.
- Do not drive through flooded roadways
- Do not walk through flowing waters
- Stay away from electrical wires

Flood Insurance

Most homeowners' insurance policies do not cover property losses due to flood waters. To insure your property for flood damage, you need a flood insurance policy. If you do not have valid flood insurance, contact an agent immediately. Property owners can insure property; renters can insure possessions. The City of Pompano Beach participates in the National Flood Insurance Program (N.F.I.P.) to provide city residents with the initial qualification to purchase flood insurance. Flood insurance typically covers the building structure but not the contents so verify your coverage for contents under your homeowner's insurance. Please note that there is a 30-day waiting period after purchase before NFIP flood insurance coverage takes effect. We applied to F.E.M.A. for participation in the C.R.S. program to enable our residents to qualify for lower flood insurance premiums.

Property Protection

There are ways to minimize property losses from flood damage, including:

- Move furniture and other household valuables to rooms or spaces in the upper story of a two-story dwelling or a location higher than the regular floor elevation in a single story home.
- Place sandbags in strategic places around your property prior to flood status. When sandbags are placed correctly at proper locations, they can slow up and divert flood waters.
- Upgrading your property can include regarding your property to provide for on-site storage of stormwater runoff, installing an earthen berm along the perimeter, retrofitting the existing structure to be flood-proofed, or elevating the existing structure to raise the finish floor elevation.

Development Permits

All development (new construction, additions, renovations, alterations to properties, etc.) in the City of Pompano Beach require a construction permit. The N.F.I.P. and the Florida Building Code require the entire building to conform to the requirements for a new building when building repairs or alterations exceed 50 percent of the building's market value. All applicable building permit applications must conform to this requirement when submitted to the Building Inspections Division. The requirement may also apply if a building is substantially damaged. Before building on, altering, regarding, or replacing fill on your property, always check with the Building Division on any permit requirements. A permit may be required to ensure that the construction does not negatively impact adjacent properties. If an ongoing construction project within a City does not have a posted permit sign, please contact the City's Building Division to report the possible violation.

Stormwater Management

Stormwater is managed through a system of pipes and drainage canals maintained regularly by our Public Works and Utilities Departments. The Broward County Office of Environmental Services and South Florida Water Management District. Constant water flow through these canals, especially during heavy storms, is essential to flood prevention in the City. City and state laws prohibit dumping trash in waterways. Report violators to Public Works Department at 954.786.4060.

Natural Habitat

Natural areas of the City provide a beneficial function by the reducing the potential severity of flooding. These natural areas typically collect and retain stormwater runoff during rainfall events and allow for the infiltration of stormwater into the natural ground surface, which can reduce the flooding levels within the developed areas of the City. These natural areas also enhance the water quality of stormwater runoff by allowing suspended sediments and nutrients to settle during the retention period. State regulations protect those natural areas that help to reduce the risks associated with flooding. Along the beach, no new structures are permitted seaward of the Coastal Construction Line without permission. Other restrictions protect some wetland areas from development.

Rate Reductions

On June 11th, 1993, F.E.M.A. awarded the City with a Class 9 rating in the C.R.S. This rating earned Pompano Beach residents a five percent discount on flood insurance premiums. In September 1994, the City received official notification that Pompano Beach residents are eligible for an additional five percent discount, or ten percent total, on flood insurance based on the City complying with the requirements for a Class 8 rating in the C.R.S. In July 2012, F.E.M.A. awarded the City a class 7 rating so flood insurance policy holders in special flood hazard areas in the City will now receive a 15% discount on their insurance premiums.

Additional Information

We urge City residents to contact or visit the Building Inspections Division to determine the flood zone and flood elevation for their property. Pompano Beach City Hall is at 100 West Atlantic Boulevard, Pompano Beach, Florida. The Pompano Beach Branch of the Broward County Library, located at 1213 East Atlantic Boulevard, has information on flood insurance, flood protection and flood plain management.
